ITINERARY

Day 1: Marrakech » Telouet » Ait Benhaddou » Ouarzazate » Dades Gorges [325 km]

Your private 6-day tour from Marrakech starts with a scene of the Atlas Mountains while we snake through the 2260m high Tizi N'Tichka pass to the Unesco World Heritage site of Ait Ben Haddou, it was added to the UNESCO list since 1987, famous on the big screen for movies like Gladiator (2000) and the famous HBO series Game of Thrones (2013).

We'll then continue to Ouarzazate know as "The Gate to Desert" to visit Atlas Film Studios and the Taourirt Kasbah located in the city and later towards the valley of Roses, well-known for its yearly festival of roses. Then, we'll drive to Dades Gorges and its gorgeous canyons where we spend the first night in a traditional riad or hotel with a complimentary dinner and breakfast.

Day 2: Dades Valley » Todra Gorges » Erfoud » Merzouga (Erg Chebbi) [255 km]

After a hearty breakfast, turn back within the valley to see the wonderful rock formation called "the monkey toes", and the Kasbah of Ait Yul, a 19th-century kasbah. Then we leave the Dades valley towards Tinghir and the Todra gorges you'll see the scenic landscapes of the old clay Berber villages overlooking the canyon.

Arriving at the Todra Gorges you'll step following the 300m high red cliff, where many rock-climbers visit to experience their preferred sport.

Continuing our trip to Erfoud where we'll have lunch and afterward, we'll leave to the magnificent sand dunes of Erg Chebbi in Merzouga.

Afterward, before spending the night under the stars in an equipped desert camp, at a traditional Berber-style nomad tent. You will have a delicious dinner and a music party around the fire.

Day 3: Merzouga » Berber Families » Black Desert » Merzouga [40km]

Continuing our 7-Day tour from Marrakech. After a shower and breakfast in the desert camp, you'll start your camel trek back to the departure point to meet your driver and begin a discovery tour of the Merzouga area, visiting the seasonal lake of Merzouga, with its migratory bird groups, including flamingos.

Not far off, there's a village almost of its habitant are dark skin people, originally from Sub-Saharan countries to experience their Gnawa music and lifestyle. On the way to a nomad family, we will stop in a small deserted town of Mefes and its lead mines and minerals.

Dinner will be served in the hotel where you will spend the night. Dinner Bed and Breakfast.

Day 4: Merzouga » Ziz Valley » Azrou Cedar forest » Fes [467 km]

After breakfast, at the hotel, we'll drive through Rissani, and its local souk, the biggest market in the region, until we reach Midelt in the Atlas Mountains via Ziz Valley and palm groves.

There, we can stop for lunch in a local restaurant before driving to Azrou cedar forest and its Barbary Apes, before continuing to Fes where we'll stay overnight in a local hotel.

We will visit Ifrane city, the stunning architecture, green gardens, very clean town, and perfect destination for Ski lovers due to its big Ski resort of Mishlifen. Because of its magnificent characteristics and location, Ifrane knows "Switzerland of Morocco".

Day 5: Fes (Visit the city with a local guide) » Casablanca [295 km]

We'll start the sightseeing tour with a local guide exploring the oldest city in Morocco, twisting through its roads and narrow alleys.

Fes is known as a Scientific city, and home to the oldest university in the world and consists of three distinct parts; Fes el Bali (a UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1981).

Fes-Jdid "new Fez" is the oldest of the three with more than 8500 narrow alleys and streets supported by a high wall (home of the Jewish quarter), and the "Ville Nouvelle", the most modern quarter of Fez built during the French occupation.

The guided sightseeing tour includes a visit to the Tanneries, the Attarine museum, and the Moulay Idriss mausoleum. You'll visit many different cooperatives and then, experience an enjoyable picturesque scene over the entire Medina of Fes.

After finishing the tour and have lunch, we'll drive to Casablanca. Dinner and overnight in the biggest city in Morocco in terms of population, recognized as the economical city.

Day 6: Casablanca » Marrakesh [241 km]

Today, we visit the main attraction and monuments of Casablanca, including the Hassan II Mosque, before driving toward the red city of Marrakech where our 6-day tour from Marrakech ends by dropping you at your accommodation or airport.
